

NEW YORK POST

'DOG-STARVE' COP TO GIVE UP

By PHILIP MESSING

March 13, 2008 -- A cop will surrender to police soon to face charges that he starved his dog, sources told The Post yesterday.

The dog, a German shepherd, has gained 15 pounds since it was removed from the cop's Queens home three weeks ago by the ASPCA after complaints from neighbors.

The animal now weighs 45 pounds.

The sources said the dog had been kept outside, and many neighbors complained it was not being fed.

The unidentified cop, an eight-year veteran, was placed on modified duty following the animal-abuse allegations.

The ASPCA had no comment.